In The News
Wednesday, February 22, 2012

- Nearly 1,800 rode the 24 Hours in the Old Pueblo ($17,000 has been raised for the University of Arizona Cancer Center's lung cancer research)
- Singer/cancer survivor keeps others attuned to their lives (University of Arizona Medical Center's Diamond Children's Medical Center)
- Science, Consciousness and Well-Being to be Explored on Day 2 of Chopra Foundation Symposium (Stuart Hameroff, M.D. is a physician and researcher at the University of Arizona Medical Center)
- An expensive puzzle -- Fewer amputations, more money (Dr. David Armstrong, University of Arizona Dept. of Surgery)
- Catalent Pharma Solutions Expert Presents on Protein Expression in CHO Cells: Comparison of GPEX® Technology to Traditional Cell Line Engineering at Cell Culture World Congress 2012 (Department of Molecular and Cellular Biology at the University of Arizona)
- JTED's Project Search a proven success (University of Arizona Medical Center South Campus)