In The News
Wednesday, January 3, 2013

Dr. James Corrigan, former Tulane medical dean, dies (Dr. Corrigan was appointed one of the original members of the pediatrics faculty at the University of Arizona Medical Center in Tucson)

1/2/2013 NOLA.com Times-Picayune

Mentions from the UA Mel and Enid Zuckerman College of Public Health:

Vaccines at issue for Arizona foster families
The Arizona Republic | azcentral.com | 12/28/2012
A report this month from the University of Arizona’s Mel and Enid Zuckerman College of Public Health published in the journal Vaccine, in collaboration with the Arizona Department of Health Services, showed higher rates of unimmunized kindergartners due to “personal exemptions” among charter schools and White, middle- to upper-class students.

Whooping cough still on the rise in Arizona
Those findings were confirmed this month when public health researchers from the University of Arizona published a study in the journal Vaccine that tracked a rise in the number of so-called "personal belief exemptions" that parents sign to excuse their children from getting immunized.

Arizona workplace-safety efforts focus on construction
Arizona.Newszap.com, 12/23/2012
Eric Lutz said inspections haven’t kept pace with the number of hotel and other service industry employees. He attributed that to a lack of resources.
Source: http://arizona.newszap.com/northvalley/118707-114/arizona-workplace-safety-efforts-focus-on-construction

Arizona Finds High Rate of Vaccination Exemptions in Charter Schools
ASPH Friday Letter, 12/21/2012
Source: http://fridayletter.asph.org/article_view.cfm?fli_index=1757&fle_index=19893

Arizona’s Klimentidis Receives Grant for Type 2 Diabetes Research
ASPH Friday Letter, 12/21/2012
Source: http://fridayletter.asph.org/article_view.cfm?fli_index=1757&fle_index=19906

Arizona’s Lutz Awarded NIOSH Grant to Study Firefighter Safety
ASPH Friday Letter, 12/21/2012
Source: http://fridayletter.asph.org/article_view.cfm?fli_index=1757&fle_index=19905

Three at COPH Recognized for Creative Endeavors
Lo Que Pasa, 12/19/2012
Source: http://uaatwork.arizona.edu/story/three-coph-recognized-creative-endeavors

State’s workplace-safety efforts focus primarily on construction
Cronkite News, 12/18/2012
But Eric Lutz, assistant professor of environmental and occupational health…
Source: http://cronkitenewsonline.com/2012/12/states-workplace-safety-efforts-focus-primarily-on-construction/

Looking at the Positives: Resilience in the Face of Chronic Illness
Indian Country, 12/11/2012
Nicolette Tuefel-Shone is co-principal investigator of the new Center for American Indian Resilience.
9th Border Health Information For Action Forum
BHC Border Connection, December 2012
Page 3: The 9th Border Health Information for Action Forum took place in Nogales, Sonora, on October 9…

Border Binational Technical Work Group
BHC Border Connection, December 2012