Associated Press (AP) - Phoenix Bureau

PHOENIX_Gov. Jan Brewer is forming a task force to provide oversight for the state's medical education system. Brewer's appointments to the new task force follow her veto of a bill that would have blocked a plan by the Board of Regents to restructure control of University Medical Center in Tucson. The task force will be made up of hospital officials, educators, legislators and others.

PHOENIX (AP) _ An Arizona native has been named to head the FBI office in Phoenix. FBI Director Robert Mueller (MUHL'-ur) has assigned James Turgal special agent in charge of the FBI's Phoenix Division. Turgal most recently served as special assistant to the deputy director. Turgal earned his Bachelor of Science degree in business from Northern Arizona University and his Juris Doctor degree from Georgetown University.

YUMA, Ariz. (AP) _ Yuma police are using electronic scanners to track down stolen cars. Detectives tell the Yuma Sun the system will read the license plate of every vehicle it passes and alert an officer within a millisecond if a vehicle or driver needs to be looked into. The system is also programmed to spot Amber Alerts, stolen plates, missing persons and if the vehicle is unregistered or has a suspended registration.

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — You may think the mosquito problem in Pima County starts during the height of the monsoon. But health officials in southern Arizona say that green swimming pools at abandoned homes are a major contributing factor. County health officials tell KOLD-TV pools at foreclosed homes are breeding grounds for mosquitoes that can carry the deadly West Nile Virus.
