In The News
Wednesday, May 15, 2013

» University Of Arizona's Commencement Light Show Puts Other Graduation Ceremonies To Shame (VIDEO) 05/15/2013 The Huffington Post View Clip

» Genetic testing giving people more options than ever (Gail Martino, UA Cancer Center) 05/15/2013 Arizona Republic View Clip

» Mayor collapses during council work session (University of Arizona Medical Center) 05/15/2013 Benson News Sun View Clip

» ZEN MIND, ZEN HORSE (Allan Hamilton) 05/15/2013 Mother Earth News View Clip

» Tucson tech: Phoenix-based BioAccel to offer seed funding for health-care innovations (Rx Vigil LLC co-founded by Kevin Boesen, an assistant professor in the UA College of Pharmacy) 05/14/2013 Arizona Daily Star View Clip

» Exercise Helps Post-Treatment Cancer Survivors (Jennifer Bea, a physician at the University of Arizona Cancer Center) 05/14/2013 Arizona Public Media View Clip

» Motivated Exercisers on the Move (Lisa Carney, RN from the University of Arizona Cancer Center) 05/14/2013 Arizona Public Media View Clip

» New Medicine: Nature, Nurture Matter (Patricia Settle, a clinical nutritionist in the University of Arizona Pediatric Pulmonary Center) 05/14/2013 Arizona Public Media View Clip

» Doctors: Jolie’s preventive mastectomy not the solution for everyone (University of Arizona Cancer Center) 05/14/2013 WTVM-TV View Clip

» Smoking cannabis 'could help prevent diabetes' (But Joseph Alpert, professor of medicine at the University of Arizona College of Medicine, Tucson, and editor in chief of the American Journal of Medicine, said: 'We desperately need a great deal more basic and clinical research into the short and long term effects of marijuana…') 05/14/2013 Metro.co.uk MedicalXpress.com View Clip