Dr. Akinlolu Ojo

A Message from the Senior Vice President for Health Sciences

Monday, June 24, 2019

I am writing with mixed feelings to announce that Dr. Akinlolu Ojo, professor of medicine, associate vice president for clinical research and global health initiatives, and principal investigator for the UA-Banner Health All of Us Research Program, has accepted a senior leadership position as executive dean of the University of Kansas School of Medicine, beginning September 2019.

Dr. Michael D. Dake

An international leader in chronic kidney disease and kidney transplantation research and clinical care with a focus on health disparities, Dr. Ojo's experience and leadership have resulted in significant accomplishments during his three years on campus. I thank Dr. Ojo for his dedication to the University of Arizona Health Sciences, and especially for his leadership in establishing a strong foundation for the All of Us Research Program that will benefit the field of medicine, Arizona investigators, and our communities for years to come. As the institutional recipient of this award, we will be working with the National Institutes of Health and Dr. Ojo to ensure a smooth transition and the program's continued success.

Please join me in congratulating Dr. Ojo on his new position and wishing him well in his new role.

Michael D. Dake, MD
Senior Vice President, UA Health Sciences
