Brian Ten Eyck

UA Health Sciences Appoints Brian Ten Eyck Assistant Vice President for Strategic Initiatives

June 27, 2019

I am delighted to announce that Brian Ten Eyck, who has nearly 15 years of progressive leadership experience at the University of Arizona, has been appointed assistant vice president for strategic initiatives at the University of Arizona Health Sciences. Brian joined the UAHS leadership team earlier this month.

Michael D. Dake, MD

In this role, Brian will work with UAHS leadership, along with external stakeholders, to advance the health sciences' strategic agenda and priorities, including a new Primary Care Scholarship program, new programs in Health Professions and opportunities for continued growth in Phoenix. These initiatives will expand interdepartmental collaboration across UAHS and main campus, and harness the creativity of students and faculty to confront the health care challenges of the 21st century.

Prior to his appointment, Brian was chief of staff at the UA Office of the Provost, where he led planning teams for two new research buildings, oversaw a task force that added process and transparency to the Provost Strategic Initiative Fund, and helped facilitate the merger of the Offices of Student and Academic Affairs.

Brian also served in the College of Engineering from 2005 to 2018, where he held various leadership roles in research development and support, helping to build capabilities and expand the reach of UA research. Before his arrival at the UA, Brian worked for the Greater Tucson Economic Council and spent a decade as a market research analyst and business strategy consultant.

Brian received his bachelor's degree in electrical engineering from Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University. In 2011, while helping to lead research development in the College of Engineering, he completed a master's degree in linguistics at the University of Arizona.

Brian's expertise in strategic planning and his commitment to operational excellence will be integral to bringing our campus into a new era, as we expand our efforts to conduct groundbreaking research and prepare our students to lead the future of health care.

Please join me in welcoming Brian to his new role.

Michael D. Dake, MD
Senior Vice President, UA Health Sciences
