Renowned Bioinformatician Joins AHSC

Yves A. Lussier, MD, FAMCI, a professional engineer and physician-scientist who conducts research in translational bioinformatics and personal genomics, has joined the Arizona Health Sciences Center at the University of Arizona.

Modest weight loss may reduce health risks in middle-aged women

Modest weight loss over a 2-year period in overweight or obese, middle-aged women may reduce risk factors for heart disease and diabetes, according to new research published in the Journal of the American Heart Association.

GME Office Awards Fall 2013 Resident Scholarships

Six resident physicians in the Graduate Medical Education program at the UA College of Medicine – Tucson have been awarded the 2013 Resident Excellence and Leadership scholarships through the GME office.

UA College of Medicine – Phoenix Faculty Named Fellows
UA Nursing College
Among 'Top 30
Cutting-Edge Nursing Schools'

Gholam A. Peyman, MD, who invented LASIK and many other advances, and Frederic Zenhausern, PhD, MBA, who has developed a rapid DNA processor, both of the UA College of Medicine – Phoenix, have been named Fellows of the National Academy of Inventors.

Intensive Exercise Training Program for Dementia Patients Improves Care

A study by researchers at the UA Department of Surgery published in the Journal of Alzheimer's Disease showed an innovative, customized exercise program applied to clinical practice substantially improved care for patients with dementia.

UA Receives $1.3 Million for Mining Safety Research

The UA Mel and Enid Zuckerman College of Public Health and Lowell Institute for Mineral Gholam A. Peyman, MD, who invented LASIK and many other advances, and Frederic Zenhausern, PhD, MBA, who has developed a rapid DNA processor, both of the UA College of Medicine – Phoenix, have been named Fellows of the National Academy of Inventors.

‘Tis the Season To Be Poisoned’

Holiday safety tips and precautions featured in free display, open to the public.

Leslie J. Cohen Named President of University Centers on Disabilities

Leslie J. Cohen, JD, director of the Sonoran University Center for Excellence in Developmental Disabilities at the UA College of Medicine – Tucson Department of Family and Community Medicine, is the new

Leslie J. Cohen Named President of University Centers on Disabilities

Leslie J. Cohen, JD, director of the Sonoran University Center for Excellence in Developmental Disabilities at the UA College of Medicine – Tucson Department of Family and Community Medicine, is the new Resources, will lead new research projects to help improve mining safety and health. president of the board of directors of the Association of University Centers on Disabilities.