In every artist begins with some lack of self-confidence. They see something in their work that they feel is not quite right. This is true of medical students as well, who have practiced medicine for only a few years. However, it is also true of patients who have practiced medicine for many years. The reason for this is that patients have the power of perception, and they can see things that the medical students cannot.

The medical students are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.

The medical students are in the first year of medical school. They are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.

The medical students are in the second year of medical school. They are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.

The medical students are in the third year of medical school. They are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.

The medical students are in the fourth year of medical school. They are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.

The medical students are in the fifth year of medical school. They are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.

The medical students are in the sixth year of medical school. They are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.

The medical students are in the seventh year of medical school. They are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.

The medical students are in the eighth year of medical school. They are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.

The medical students are in the ninth year of medical school. They are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.

The medical students are in the tenth year of medical school. They are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.

The medical students are in the eleventh year of medical school. They are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.

The medical students are in the twelfth year of medical school. They are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.

The medical students are in the thirteenth year of medical school. They are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.

The medical students are in the fourteenth year of medical school. They are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.

The medical students are in the fifteenth year of medical school. They are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.

The medical students are in the sixteenth year of medical school. They are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.

The medical students are in the seventeenth year of medical school. They are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.

The medical students are in the eighteenth year of medical school. They are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.

The medical students are in the nineteenth year of medical school. They are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.

The medical students are in the twentieth year of medical school. They are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.

The medical students are in the twenty-first year of medical school. They are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.

The medical students are in the twenty-second year of medical school. They are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.

The medical students are in the twenty-third year of medical school. They are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.

The medical students are in the twenty-fourth year of medical school. They are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.

The medical students are in the twenty-fifth year of medical school. They are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.

The medical students are in the twenty-sixth year of medical school. They are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.

The medical students are in the twenty-seventh year of medical school. They are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.

The medical students are in the twenty-eighth year of medical school. They are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.

The medical students are in the twenty-ninth year of medical school. They are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.

The medical students are in the thirtieth year of medical school. They are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.

The medical students are in the thirty-first year of medical school. They are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.

The medical students are in the thirty-second year of medical school. They are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.

The medical students are in the thirty-third year of medical school. They are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.

The medical students are in the thirty-fourth year of medical school. They are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.

The medical students are in the thirty-fifth year of medical school. They are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.

The medical students are in the thirty-sixth year of medical school. They are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.

The medical students are in the thirty-seventh year of medical school. They are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.

The medical students are in the thirty-eighth year of medical school. They are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.

The medical students are in the thirty-ninth year of medical school. They are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.

The medical students are in the fortieth year of medical school. They are doing well. They are learning to diagnose and treat patients. They are learning to write their medical reports. They are learning to do their best.