Message to UAHS Faculty and Staff

Oct. 20, 2017

Dear UAHS Community,

Change is inevitable but not always easy.

Today, we write to let you know that Jennifer Flores, associate vice president and chief development officer of University of Arizona Health Sciences Development, has announced she will be leaving the University of Arizona to explore new opportunities and spend more time with her family. Her last day in the office will be Friday, Nov. 17.

Under Jennifer's leadership, UA Health Sciences Development has made remarkable progress. Jennifer joined the UA in January 2015 and spearheaded the centralization of development efforts, which went into effect in July 2015. In that short time, overall giving increased by 40 percent, and is on track to continue an upward trajectory. Her team has increased efficiencies and transparency, and has reengaged the amazing donor base committed to our colleges, centers and departments within the UA Health Sciences.

We would like to personally thank Jennifer for her passion and dedication to the UA, its donors, and her staff. JP Roczniak and I would like to reaffirm our commitment to supporting the UA Health Sciences Development team as we move forward. In the next few weeks, we will be working with Jennifer to develop a transition plan and announce interim leadership that will ensure a smooth transition.

Please join us in wishing Jennifer well in all her new endeavors. Thank you.

Sincerely,

Leigh A. Neumayer, MD, MS
Interim Senior Vice President for Health Sciences
University of Arizona Health Sciences

John-Paul Roczniak
President & Chief Executive Officer
University of Arizona Foundation
